The right page of the exam paper contains 15 horizontal musical staves, identical in format to the left page. It features a solid horizontal line at the top, followed by a dashed horizontal line, and then 15 staves of five parallel lines each, arranged in a regular grid pattern for musical notation.
